

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A protective device for a vehicle is described which is deactivatable by a switch, the state of the switch being analyzable by a processor in a control unit and by an independent hardware path. The independent hardware path has at least one logic module which makes the setting

5 of delay times highly flexible.